The Journal of Medicine and Philosophy

Published quarterly by
The University of Chicago Press for
The Society for Health and Human Values
Edmund D. Pellegrino, general editor

The Journal of Medicine and Philosophy was founded to explore the shared themes and concerns of philosophy and the medical sciences. Now in its third year, the Journal has ably demonstrated that the intellectual and practical dialogue between these two disciplines is stimulating, controversial, and vital to contemporary culture.

Each issue of the Journal is devoted to a particular theme and is edited by a specialist in the field. Included in the first two volumes are the following issues: Toward a Philosophy of Medicine, Idea and Image of Man, Concepts of Health and Disease, Causality in Medicine, Clinical Medicine as Science, Mind-Body Quandaries, Mental Health, Consent and Responsibility in Medicine.

The third volume 1978

The Nature of Death (March)

Maurice Natanson, editor

Concepts of Life (June)

Richard M. Zaner, editor

The Philosophical Basis of Professional Ethics (September)

Edmund D. Pellegrino, editor

Medicine and Knowledge (December)

Marx Wartofsky, editor

MEDICINE IN OLD AGE

from the British Medical Journal

The series of twenty-two articles published in the British Medical Journal have been collected in book form as a convenient source of reference for general practitioners. The emphasis is on remedial mechanisms, and the use that can be made of psychogeriatric and social services in keeping the elderly healthy and relatively independent members of the community.
