PERGAMON PRESS

Social Science & Medicine is the international forum for the exchange of ideas and information among social scientists, medical researchers and practitioners, and health administrators and planners. Emphasis is placed upon practical applications of research to solve current problems in health care. A new feature to the journal is the inclusion of a Health Policy section in recognition of the recent, rapid and substantial growth of interest in this field. This newly created section publishes papers concerned with all aspects of the design, formulation and implementation of Health Policy. Relevant papers are welcomed for editorial consideration.

ABC OF BRAIN STEM DEATH

The subject of brain stem death still arouses misconceptions—witness the response to the BBC Panorama programme on transplantation and brain death. In a series of articles in the BMJ Dr Christopher Pallis dispelled some of the misconceptions, examined the concepts underlying our ideas of death, and described the practical aspects of diagnosing brain stem death. These articles have now been collected into a book together with additional material on the wider aspects of the subject, including some of the neurological controversies.
