Contents

Editorial
661 Decommodifying the most important determinant of health A Shahvisi

Clinical ethics
663 Replication crisis and placebo studies: rebooting the bioethical debate C Blease, B Colagiuri, C Locher

Current controversy
670 Trust and the Goldacre Review: why trusted research environments are not about trust M Graham, R Milne, P Fitzsimmons, M Sheehan

Feature article and commentaries
674 Professional virtue of civility and the responsibilities of medical educators and academic leaders L B McCullough, J Coverdale, F A Chervenak

679 Give incivility a chance R Essex, J Mainey

681 Civility and scientific excellence: two dimensions of medical professionalism S Salloch

683 Incentivising civility in clinical environments T K Browne, Z Lederman

685 How can junior doctors spontaneously pursue the professional virtues of civility? The direct role of academic leaders X Li, Q Kong, Y Liu, J Yang

686 Boundaries of civility promotion in education and leadership M Grasso

688 Democratising civility: Commentary on McCullough LB et al: Professional virtue of civility and the responsibilities of medical educators and academic leaders P A Berry

690 Physicians as citizens and the indispensability of civic virtues for professional practice S Monteverde

October 2023 Volume 49 Issue 10

691 There is no ‘I’ in team, but there are two in civil T Donaldson

692 Professional virtue of civility: responding to commentaries L B McCullough, J Coverdale, F A Chervenak

Original research
694 Non-clinical uses of antipsychotics in resource-constrained long-term care facilities: ethically justifiable as lesser of two evils? H Sofi

Extended essays
699 Withering Minds: towards a unified embodied mind theory of personal identity for understanding dementia D M Lyreskog

707 Abandoning the Dead Donor Rule A P Smith

Responses
715 Against abandoning the dead donor rule: reply to Smith A Omelanchock

717 Egalitarianism, moral status and abortion: a reply to Miller J Räsänen

719 Global health and global governance of emerging biomedical technologies B Cwik

Ethics briefing
721 What’s on the horizon? • Disagreements in the care of critically ill children • Professional standards for UK registered doctors • The health and social care committee inquiry on assisted dying/assisted suicide • Isle of man – assisted dying bill R Mussell, N Michaux, M Gray

Words
723 Amanitvam: a concept from the Bhagavad Gita applicable in medical ethics A Simha