Editorial
451 Can identity-relative paternalism shift the focus from the principle of autonomy? C Auckland

Clinical ethics
453 Watching the watchmen: changing tides in the oversight of medical assistance in dying S Riley
458 The age limit for euthanasia requests in the Netherlands: a Delphi study among paediatric experts S C de Keijzer, G Widder, A A E Verhagen, H R Pasman

Current controversy
465 Equipoise, standard of care and consent: responding to the authorisation of new COVID-19 treatments in randomised controlled trials S Holm, J Lewis, R Dal-Ré
471 Preserving women’s reproductive autonomy while promoting the rights of people with disabilities?: the case of Heidi Crowter and Maire Lea-Wilson in the light of NIFT debates in England, France and Germany A Perez, R Horn

Feature article and commentaries
474 Reification and assent in research involving those who lack capacity A Smajdor

Original research
497 An autonomy-based approach to assisted suicide: a way to avoid the expressivist objection against assisted dying laws E Braun
502 Leveling (down) the playing field: performance diminishments and fairness in sport S J Holmen, T S Petersen, J Ryberg

Responses
510 Deception, intention and clinical practice N Colgrove
513 Unintentional deception still deceives D Hardman

Extended essay
515 Data for sale: trust, confidence and sharing health data with commercial companies M Graham